Elections, 1980, RONALD REAGAN TEAM FINALLY IN.

THE FACES OF POWER, Seyom Brown, Columbia U.Press, N.Y.1968
Foreign policy from Truman to Johnson. Atomic bomb through JFK assassination.

"The powerful are those who have large purposes and can accomplish them."

"The ability to induce consent from others is the essence of political power."

"The power of one individual or society over another is determined profoundly by the willingness of each to give in to the desires of the other."

"Even those inferior in physical force have sometimes proven themselves superior in overall human power by virtue of their ability to sustain their wills and achieve their purposes against the desires of a physically superior adversary. The case of Gandhi was done by modifying the will and purposes of the opponent."

REAGAN'S TEAM WERE BRILLIANT IN THEIR ANALYSIS THAT THE OPPONENTS WOULD SLEEP OUT THE ELECTION OR DIVIDE THEMSELVES UP.

HENRY KISSINGER, NYT, 10/31/80 Would he accept "Secretary of State?"

"It would be the height of arrogance to reject such an important position out of hand." (Where did he learn his manners?)
